Eco Centricismis the Nucleus for Development: An Ecocritical of Amitav Ghosh’s Hungry Tide

Ben J. Milton, J. Sundarsingh

ABSTRACT—Ecocriticism facilitates understanding the complexities of relationship between man and nature as presented in literature. This relationship varies from one species to another and brings out the characteristics of nature and human being. India is a country rich in ecology and has its roots deeply dug in the environment. Hence it syncs well with the Environment. The Sundarbans is one such place which was is deeply immersed with the planet’s ecology. AmitavGhosh, in his writing, has brought out the beauty of the place and has spoken about the life people lived over there. He has brought out nature and man from his perspective in an eco-centric world. He portrays the vicinity and talks about the relationship between the protagonist and nature in the novel Hungry Tide. Despite the various troubles that come their way their sole dependence upon nature is highlighted. The author points out the relevance and invariance of age that dependent upon nature which aspires to remain the same.

I. INTRODUCTION

Eco is a subset of biology, which is related to the connections between living beings in their common habitat and in addition their associations with that condition. The connection amongst man and nature isn't recently associated yet in addition interrelated. Ecocriticism emerged in William Rueckert's paper "Writing and Ecology: An Experiment in Ecocriticism. Ecocriticism talks about the various ideas and connections between man and the social construct at various level and exercised in writing. The trickery is at the logical level and different types of scholarly articulations. Individuals have a characteristic journey to discover their roots and be a piece of the regular habitat that they have a place with. Be that as it may, a similar time, they have over abused normal assets and misused nature to its fullest.

Ecocriticism deals with artistic feedback which claims to explore the correlation between writing and earth. It covers the investigation of writing, human studies, social science, brain research and so on and endeavours to consider the state of mind of humankind in environment. Notable names in this class include Eco poetics, nature writing and ecological artistic feedback. It thinks in what context the author has summoned enthusiasm for researchers around the world. Ecocriticism isn't just the utilization of environment and biological standards yet in addition the investigation of writing and hypothetical way to deal with the associations of the environment, culture and its intricacies. It is additionally an investigation of dialect through which writing is communicated. Writing famous for copying the Revised Manuscript Received on 14 August, 2019.

Ben J. Milton, Ph.D. Research Scholar, Department of English, School of Science, Arts, Media and Management, Karunya Institute of Technology and Sciences, Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, India.

Dr. J. Sundarsingh, Professor and Head, Department of English, School of Science, Arts, Media and Management, Karunya Institute of Technology and Sciences, Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, India.

DOI: 10.35940/ijeat.F1309.0986S319

Published By: Blue Eyes Intelligence Engineering & Sciences Publication

1654

International Journal of Engineering and Advanced Technology (IJEAT)
ISSN: 2249 – 8958, Volume-8, Issue-6S3, September 2019
flora and fauna in the country. Despite direct correlation there is nature intertwined with the setting. The glorification of nature and description by writers gives gleam to the art work.

III. ECOCENTRISM AND ECOCRITICAL ETHICS IN THE HUNGRY TIDE & RESULTS

Ecocentrism strives to establish an integrity between man and his society and to also evolve to integrate a better society. Ecocentrism as a discipline attempts to register the fact that man is the reflection of ecology and he is the mere representation of ecology. The remedial aspects to redirect man from the existing unawareness is the prime objective of Ecocentrism. There is a demand which bases an ecocentric view to break the inhuman to and raise a humane transition among the society. Ecocentrism promises effective solution through various integrated societal aspect.

AmitavGhosh’s The Hungry Tide (2005) is one of the novels which has been written in the current era. In The Hungry Tide, Ghosh problematizes the strains between and inside human groups, their particular relations with the regular world, and the additional desultory reality of nature that progresses and is all the while changed by humankind. The novel revolves around the relationship between the marine biologist (Piyali Roy) and nature. Water is the creator of the relationships and the destroyer too. The bond is created when Piyali Roy almost drowns when she’s aboard in a boat. Fokir rescues her from the water. It ends up becoming a beautiful relationship/friendship. It ends with his life being taken away when he tried to protect her. This ends the sad tale. Water here is the Alpha and the Omega in the relationship. Which talks about the role water plays in the lives of people.

The story entirely revolves around Sundarbans, which is one of the suburbs of India. Ghosh portrays the entire novel as the ecological witness in the region of west Bengal after 2004, which is completely surrounded by the mangrove forest. The characters employed in the novel intersect at various grounds and provide a striving purpose in illustrating the Ecological factors in novel. The narration gradually takes back to the memory of Kanai, which was in the form of a hand written dairy. She insisted him to read the entire letter for the sake of Kusum, who is dead and an old friend of Kanai in Lusibari. The letter consists of the record of the main events that took place in the year 1979. Later on, Nilima narrates the entire happenings of Morichjhapi massacre, where Kusum was killed. Nilima introduces Kanai to Fokir’s family, and Fokir, son of Kusum, who is a local illiterate fisherman. Kanai comes to an understanding of how unsure the tide is in Sundarbans after he interacts with Fokir’s wife Moyna. Meeting held in the hospital gave him a perspective, as thorough out the meeting Moyna was keen about sending their son Tutul to school. Moyna has deep affection towards her son to ride along her husband and she has plans for his son to attend school in the near future. Entire conversation doubtlessly enthralled Kanai, as he was clueless about the massacre and Fokir’s family’s plight. The narration gradually takes back to the memory of Kanai, when he met Kusum in the year 1970, and she was under Nilima’s care as Kusam’s family has broken apart. Kanai also reminisces the performance they watched together and the last time he saw Kusum.

Parallely, Piyia has come to her native land to excavate a rare Dalphin species. Forest department of Sundarbans grants permission for her research and she seeks aid from the local fisherman. A forest guard offers to help her along with a boat pilot, Mejda. They set off for their destination into the woods and they reach a particular spot as Mejda proposes that they could spot the dolphin. Piyia could realise after a while that these people are not helping and they are just condescending. The reckless attitude of the men intimidated her as she almost drowns into the water. She calls off the entire works as the men are not reliable to help her in anyways. However, in a meantime, Piyia encounters Fokir before and they begin their persuit in the search of the dolphin to a place called Garjontola, where they encounter few Irrawaddy Dolphins around the area. Piyia is overwhelmed as the day is not a failure and she could mark certain amount of progression in her work. Moreover, the genuineness of Fokir along with is son is an added factor in seamlessly pursue her work. However, the risk is like an inevitable factor as Piyia almost lost her hand to crocodiles, which are also present in the water.

Piyia then decides to seek help from kanai, who has already invited her to Lucibari. Nilima also offers to help Piyia by allotting the guesthouse for Piyia’s stay during her time of research. Meanwhile, the narration takes the readers through the letter and details the meeting of Nirmal, Kusum and Nilima. Refuges of Morichjhanpi were in a clueless about the massacre and Fokir’s family’s plight. The narration gradually takes back to the memory of Kanai, when he met Kusum in the year 1970, and she was under Nilima’s care as Kusam’s family has broken apart. Kanai also reminisces the performance they watched together and the last time he saw Kusum.

Published By: Blue Eyes Intelligence Engineering & Sciences Publication

ECO CENTRICISM IS THE NUCELUS FOR DEVELOPMENT: AN ECOCRITICAL OF AMITAV GHOSH’S HUNGRY TIDE

Retrieval Number: F130909865319/2019©BEIESP
DOI: 10.35940/ijeat.F1309.09865319
1655 1656
Kanai prepares to leave along with Piya, as tiger kills people every week in the place they are about to visit. This is a strong evidence that government prioritizes tiger over common people and they are the actual victims. Further, they move towards the Garjontola pool in order to begin the research. Kanai beings to translate as Piya starts to talk about how she developed interest towards study of dolphins.

They encounter endless struggles throughout the stay in the pool. Kanai along with Horen decides to leave the place as Piya is able to communicate with Fokir better than the previous time. Kanai learns about a cyclone in the Garjontola pool later, but he was unable to return to the place and rescue them. Unfortunately, Fohir is hit by something large and he dies in the boat. Piya returns to Lucibari and narrates the whole incident to everyone. Piya also decides the name the project as Fokir.

The disposition of the characters in the novel has various factors that impedes their communication and nature acts as a driving force in order to unite them. Kanai’s prime duty seems to act as a bridge between Piyali and Fokir, but there is a gradual progress in their relationship, where Piyali was able to comprehend the information communicated by Fokir. This stems up to the understanding of unity that nature has taught the characters in the novel. The portrayal of the character Fokir has also deepened the addition to the ecocentric narration of Ghosh. Fokir, the local fisherman, though kills animals for living also plays indispensable role in conserving them. Ghosh strives to give ecological solution to the central issue of the novel by effectively connecting past and present. The dramatic depletion of the nature is insisted as there is instinctive call of attention is portrayed through the character Kanai. Postcolonial emphasis also deliberately insists that ecological balance as Ghosh vividly describes the past and the need for the present change in the environment. Nalimia being the strongest postcolonial character proves to reinforce that human beings are part of nature and she resources to insist on saving animals and explains the danger of it. The strongest message of ecocentricism is conveyed through connecting indigenous people with their nature in which community based ecology is explained. Reconciling with nature is also strongly projected alongside of the entire story.

The grinding amongst arrive and the ocean in the Sunderbans makes a steady rubbing between the plant and creature life. Man's consistent infringement of the environments of the Sunderbans just legitimize the pressures between the different components of nature. The Hungry Tide is set in the Sunderbans, an island in the Bay of Bengal which isn’t recently delightful yet additionally intriguing. For pilgrims, the Sunderbans offers to a great degree eccentric and unreliable life.” By dramatizing the encounter between bourgeois characters and the traumatic history of people inhabiting the Sunderbans region of Bengal, Ghosh suggests that an unreconstructed cosmopolitanism is incapable of addressing social injustices” says Terri Tomsky in his article when talking about the novel.

The Hungry Tide is a deliberate attempt to provoke readers to think in fresh ways about the role and meaning of place in fictional and nonfictional narratives—both in narratological and ideological terms. In short, Ghosh’s depiction of the Sunderbans exposes the limits of conceiving character and setting as distinct (and opposed) categories (Fletcher pg 5).

Distress and ousting are consistent dangers and assaults by tigers are generally normal. Tidal surges demolish the dependability of life on the island with no notice. Amitav Ghosh's The Hungry Tide always talks about the contention amongst man and nature with regards to the Sundarbans in India and Bangladesh. The novel mirrors the contentions between the occupants and the oceanic and untamed life of the Sunderbans.

On all levels of the story, in fact, the forces of the global interact powerfully with the local, be that in ecological, economic, or cultural terms. And, in the end, an engaged globalism and an engaged localism emerge as co-constitutive, and are posited together opposite the force of destructive national and regional politics (AlexaWeik, Pg 121)

There have been various instances in the novel which cite the relevance and dependence upon nature for livelihood. The entire scene is set in the Sundarbans which is an area which dwells in costal biodiversity. “Ecology found its voice by studying the properties of species, their distribution across space, and their adaptive discourse in time” says William Howarth in the Ecocriticism Reader. This stays in tandem with the life lived by the characters in the story. Piyali Roy by profession is a Marine Biologist who lives a life by studying the intricacies in the life of the renowned Irrawaddy Dolphins. Amitav Ghosh has shown this character as a person of strength and grit to withstand the problems faced by man i.e. the government and so on. She has the characters of an Ecofeminist. Where she earns the name of being a feminist by her ideals and her very close connection and desire to study this particular breed is depicted in the novel. As Karen J Warren states in her work, she claims that Women and the environment have a closer walk together. As they have close connection with nature, they have their pursuits too in accordance to their walk with nature. Piyali Roy as a cetologist helps in the understanding marine animals and others. In the end the connection established between her and the environment is evident in the text.

There are no borders here to divide fresh water from salt, river from sea. The tides reach as far as three hundred kilometers inland and every day thousands of acres of forest disappear underwater only to re-emerge hours later. The currents are so powerful as to reshape the islands almost daily some days the water tears away entire promontories and peninsulas; at other times it throws up new shelves and sandbanks where there were none before. (13)

IV. CONCLUSION

India is a country which is rich in biodiversity. The country is rich in Flora and Fauna and hence it is seen in the works of writers. This collage of ideas and thoughts sync well with the literature. In accordance to that, literature has come to grow alongside with such scenic and aesthetic descriptions in the works of Indian Authors. Hungry Tide is one such novel which has immense amounts of such literature in correlation to that. The protagonist itself studies nature and the tale tapers on that very note. Fiyali Roy tries to do research and can be seen as an Eco Feminist based on this work. Nature is seen as a provider in her household too, despite not being the traditional provider, it does provide in a different way. The Novel is filled with Ecocritical elements and stands as literary elements which add flavour and beauty to the novel by broadcasting the relationship between man and nature. This is highlighted in the novel and the plans and ideas that help nature and man coexist can be seen in the novel.
ECO CENTRICISM IS THE NUCELUS FOR DEVELOPMENT: AN ECOCRITICAL OF AMITAV GHOSH'S HUNGRY TIDE

The harmonious balance between man and nature is meticulously explained through the novel. The fact of coexistence between man and nature is inscribed through this novel. It also paved way for man to understand that there is no life possible without establishing relationship between man and nature. Mother earth has infinitely generated various problem, which is an inductive reminder to safe guard the earth. Literature acts as a tool and a medium to link nature and man and also strives for effective commencement of actions to mankind. Ghosh has remarkably included the elements of caution through every character deployed in the novel. Ecology has proved to be a striving force throughout the novel which alters the way of life people lived in the past and also featured in the present. There is fear instilled in Moyna, who is depicted to be the one of the bravest characters with will power, fears nature to safe guard her son’s life. This is the strongest reinforcement from nature against all odds to win man.

BIBLIOGRAPHY